

GENDER MAINSTREAMING AS A STRATEGY FOR POVERTY REDUCTION IN SMALL-SCALE COMMUNITY FISHERIES:

A CASE STUDY OF NANDONI DAM,
LIMPOPO PROVINCE,
SOUTH AFRICA

BY

BASSEY AUGUSTINE INYANG
INSTITUTE FOR GENDER AND YOUTH STUDIES

UNIVEN LIBRARY

Library Item : 20141190

University of Venda

A RESEARCH REPORT SUBMITTED IN FULFILLMENT OF THE REQUIREMENT OF A MASTERS DEGREE IN GENDER STUDIES,
UNIVERSITY OF VENDA

SUPERVISOR: DR. T. D. THOBEJANE
INSTITUTE FOR GENDER AND YOUTH STUDIES

CO-SUPERVISOR: PROF. A. K. SIACHITEMA
INSTITUTE FOR GENDER AND YOUTH STUDIES

Acknowledgement

This study has been a motivating and stirring opportunity for me to learn as well as to expand my understanding of gender and how poverty alleviation strategies can shape the gender dynamics of a community. This would not have been possible without the contribution of countless people and my institution. I thank the Institute for accepting my research proposal, and its support throughout my studies. I acknowledge The University of Venda for its research assistance and in the process of this write up. I acknowledge further the precious lessons learnt from the participants of the Nandoni communities. To the respondents, I say thank you for your answers without which this research would not have been a success.

In a special way, I thank God for linking me up with my supervisors Dr. T.D. Thobajane and Prof. A.K. Siachitema who assisted me to reach this level of intellectual maturity.

I also pass my gratitude to the former Head of Department of Computer Science Dr. O.O Ekabua, for his brotherly assistance throughout this study. I also acknowledge Emmanuel Okosi and Bassey Isong for their support during this study. My sincere thanks go to Pedzy Gety; her lovely friendship kept me moving day by day till the end of this study. My special gratitude goes to Promise Odey. This study would not have been successful without you. I also acknowledge the help of all my friends, such as Gbemi Amusa. Thank you all.